LOCAL FIRM IS AWARDED $300

The firm of Klinefelter and Cromwell, Gettysburg well diggers, was awarded $300 and costs of the suit in York, Monday afternoon, in a civil action brought against LeRoy L. Bittinger, of Hanover. Judge Henry C. Niles tried the case.

The local concern brought suit to recover a balance alleged to be due for drilling wells on lands owned by Bittinger, the work being done under a verbal contract.

GULF AND TEXACO JOIN IN GAS WAR

Practically All Large Distributors In Adams County Have Slashed Prices to Consumer.

Meeting the reduced retail price of gasoline, set at 16 cents a gallon by the Atlantic Refining company and the Sinclair company, which cut prices following the lead of the Epc company, The Gulf Refining company and the Texaco company today announced reductions.

The gas war began several weeks ago when C. W. Epley, proprietor of the C. W. Epley Oil company, distributor of Epc gasoline, reduced the retail price of gasoline to 16 cents a gallon. In doing so, he said, he was fighting the practice of certain local garages in giving courtesy cards to consumers by which they could purchase gasoline at a reduction.

According to information, the Texas company has made its retail price of 16 cents a gallon effective throughout the county. The price cut of the other companies is effective only in Gettysburg. To the retail price of 16 cents a gallon is added the two cents a gallon state tax, or 18 cents a gallon to the consumer. The Epc company on Sunday retailed gasoline to the consumer at six gallons for $1.00, including tax.

Nearby Cities Invited Here To See Gorgeous Blossoms In Orchards Over Weekend

Hillside Expected To Be Riot Of Beauty Over Saturday And Sunday; No Formal Program Is Arranged, But Cars Will Be Directed From Center Square To Most Attractive Sections.

Full support of the Apple Blossom tour of Adams county to be held next Saturday and Sunday, May 7 and 8, was promised the committee in charge of arrangements by the apple growers and plans are going forward to welcome a host of visitors to this section on those two days.

Nearby Cities Invited

Large cards and posters were printed today, heralding the gorgeous display of Adams county apple blossoms and inviting the people of nearby cities to come to Adams county over the week-end to see them, and the usual Sunday traffic here is expected to be greatly increased if the weather is favorable. Charles B. Dougherty, of the Gettysburg Ice and Storage company, took a large number of the posters to York this afternoon and distributed them, posting them on industrial plant bulletin boards and in fraternal homes and arranging for general distribution. He will also supervise their distribution in other nearby cities during the next few days. While the movement to bring people here to see the apple blossoms was launched locally without funds, a number of public spirited men have underwritten the small expense and small contributions are solicited from business people who will profit by the influx of visitors expected. These contributions may be made to Samuel G. Spangler, Charles B. Dougherty, chairman respectively of the Rotary and Lions' clubs committees, or left at The Gettysburg Times office.

Weather Conditions Spoil Plans

While weather conditions delayed the culmination of plans for the tour for some time, it was finally decided by the committee from the Rotary and Lions' clubs and an invitation has been sent to residents of surrounding cities and towns to visit the county on those two days and see the county at its best.

The tourists and visitors desiring to see the orchards will be met in the Center Square and conducted or directed over the route decided upon as affording the best view of the most orchards.

The uncertainty of the date has made it impossible to conduct a festival at the Arendtsville park, as originally planned, but it is assured that those who visit the county during this period will be amply repaid for their trip.

Directions In Circle Sunday

A group of persons acquainted with the location of the orchards of the county will be stationed at Center Square and will be available to motorists wishing to make the tour.

The combined committees have been promised the support of the orchardists and while no definite route has been mapped out the motorists will be able to pick his own road and is under no obligation to go over the entire territory.

While weather conditions have held back the blossoms for nearly a week, orchardists stated they will be abundant and a gorgeous sight is promised all who go on the tour.

All fear that the blossoms would be hurt by the freezing weather has been allayed by fruit growers who say that the blossoms will appear even if the fruit has been damaged, and from present indications they will be in full bloom for several days. In the Arendtsville section the blossoms are now coming into bloom and are found to be sturdy and thought to be able to stand any kind of weather which might come during the latter part of the week.

MANY PAY HONOR TO MR. TROXELL

Largely Attended Funeral Services Held From Late Home; Employes Pallbearers.

Largely attended funeral services were held this afternoon from his late residence on Hanover street for C. William Troxell, assistant treasurer of the Citizens' trust company, and popular young man, who ended his life in the directors' room of the bank last Saturday morning. The services were conducted by the Rev. Earl J. Bowman, pastor of St. James Lutheran church.

Floral tributes were beautiful and profuse, and attested to the high esteem in which Mr. Troxell was held by individuals and organizations. He had an unusually wide circle of friends.

The Citizens' trust company closed its doors at noon for the day. Mr. Troxell had been employed at the bank twelve years, rising to the position of assistant treasurer from a clerkship.

Five fellow-workers at the bank and Ira Plank were the active pallbearers. The bank employes were Harry L. Snyder, Ross Myers, Milo Diehl, Robert Hartley and James Gibbs.

Directors of the bank served as honorary pallbearers. The directors are George W. Schwartz, H. C. Hartley, S. B. Goehner, George A. Klinge, C. Ray Rupp, J. L. Scott, F. M. Musselman, Grover C. Myers, C. Arthur Grist, George H. Dutta, W. F. Gilliland and Charles W. Gardner.

ARREST TWO AT COUNTY HOME

Wanderers Locked Up After Showing Disapproval of Meals Served to Transients.

Charged with malicious mischief, James Kenny and Wilbur Weiss, both of Newark, New Jersey, were taken into custody by Trooper C. B. Robenolt at the county home this morning.

The men, said by police to be "knights of the road," became unruly while eating breakfast, which, it is said, did not suit them.

According to Trooper Robenolt, the men broke several windows in the building in which they spent the night, poured coffee and water over the floor and threw two coffee pots on the floor.

A third man, who had arrived at the county home Monday evening, with the two in custody, escaped before the officer arrived. The two men in jail place the blame for the acts on him.

A date for a hearing has not been set.

Rotarians Hosts to Girl Marksmen; Approve Plan To Rejuvenate C. of C.

Addresses by Frederic A. Godcharles, state librarian, historian and newspaper publisher of Milton; Henry M. Scharf, manager of Hotel Gettysburg, and secretary of the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce; an extemporaneous talk by former President Howard A. Musselman, of the Traverse City, Michigan, Rotary club, who is visiting his brother, J. Elmer Musselman, and other relatives; presentation of a silver loving cup to the Girls' Rifle team of Gettysburg college by the Susquehanna Trap Shooters' league; orchestra music by the Penn Ramblers and other events featured the regular weekly luncheon of the Gettysburg Rotary club at the Hoffman hotel Monday evening.

Members of the Girls' Rifle club were guests of honor, as were the members of the Gettysburg Trap-shooting club, who were defeated the latter part of March by the girls' team. An appropriate and pretty speech of acceptance of the cup and greetings to the Rotarians was made on behalf of the girl marksmen of college by Miss Anna Tawney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Tawney, Springs avenue, after the address and

BRAKEMAN LOSES FOOT IN MISHAP IN FREIGHT YARD

Harrisburg Man In Accident When Foot Slips While Shifting Here Early Today.

The left foot of Clarence Trostle, 26, a freight brakeman on the Philadelphia and Reading railroad, was so badly crushed by a locomotive in the local freight yards at 12:35 o'clock this morning that it was necessary to amputate it at the Warner hospital.

According to N. B. Schurman, local freight agent for the Reading, Trostle, a resident of Harrisburg, had thrown a switch so that the shifting freight could proceed east, and had leaped to a step on the front part of the locomotive when his foot slipped.

In falling, Trostle's left foot remained on the rail and before he could withdraw it the engine had crushed it.

The injured man was taken to the Warner hospital, where a surgeon amputated the crushed foot at the heel.

COUPLE MARRIED AT NUPTIAL MASS

New Oxford Girl Becomes Bride; Parochial Children Sing Mass.

Miss Ethel S. Flesman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Flesman, of near New Oxford, and Albert Smith, Philadelphia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Smith, New Oxford, were married at a high nuptial mass at 8 o'clock this morning in St. Mary's Catholic church, New Oxford, the Rev. Father Joseph Whalen officiating.

They were attended by Miss Marie Carbaugh as bridesmaid, and Raymond Smith, best man. Miss Rosella Staub played for the ceremony. Parochial school children sang the mass.

The bride wore a white satin dress, with a veil, caught at the temples with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses. Her attendant wore a Nile green dress and a white hat.

After the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. The couple then left on a wedding trip after which they will reside in Philadelphia where the bridegroom is employed in the construction business.

POWER LEAK ANNOYS

Complaints have been made to officials of the Gettysburg electric company by local radio dealers and users about a power leak in their lines which has been interfering seriously with reception for nearly a week. The leak is said by one radio dealer to be somewhere on Baltimore street, between Centre Square and Baltimore hill.

Rotarians Hosts to Girl Marksmen; Approve Plan To Rejuvenate C. of C.

Addresses by Frederic A. Godcharles, state librarian, historian and newspaper publisher of Milton; Henry M. Scharf, manager of Hotel Gettysburg, and secretary of the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce; an extemporaneous talk by former President Howard A. Musselman, of the Traverse City, Michigan, Rotary club, who is visiting his brother, J. Elmer Musselman, and other relatives; presentation of a silver loving cup to the Girls' Rifle team of Gettysburg college by the Susquehanna Trap Shooters' league; orchestra music by the Penn Ramblers and other events featured the regular weekly luncheon of the Gettysburg Rotary club at the Hoffman hotel Monday evening.

Members of the Girls' Rifle club were guests of honor, as were the members of the Gettysburg Trap-shooting club, who were defeated the latter part of March by the girls' team. An appropriate and pretty speech of acceptance of the cup and greetings to the Rotarians was made on behalf of the girl marksmen of college by Miss Anna Tawney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Tawney, Springs avenue, after the address and presentation by Mr. Godcharles, who is president of the Susquehanna league.

Other guests of the club included E. D. McCain and Adolf H. Schaffert, Frederick, Md.; H. N. Hendricks, Cleveland, Ohio; Harry L. Saul, Bedford; J. S. Borland, Pittsburgh; Dorsey Dougherty, Gettysburg; P. W. Stallsmith, Mose Bair and Robert Bell, Gettysburg, and E. S. Bailey, Philadelphia.

"The best marksmen in the world are Americans," Mr. Godcharles said. "In fact, we are so good that competitive rifle sport with other nations is no longer interesting. And I am not surprised that these women defeated the men in a contest, for they are naturally and inherently good marksmen."

Mr. Godcharles, who directed rifle practice at Camp Funsten during the world war, teaching a class of 55 officers including several generals and mostly West Point graduates, said that all people of normal faculties can be taught to shoot, and he cited examples to prove his assertion. He pointed out that some of the best

His Fame Continues to Bring Publicity to Town and College

This art layout of photographs of the late Eddie Plank, of Gettysburg, and the new gymnasium at Gettysburg college named in his honor has just been syndicated by newspaper service organizations and is appearing in hundreds of newspapers throughout the country, bringing additional publicity to Gettysburg and Gettysburg college, though the world famous pitching ace of the old Philadelphia Athletics passed away more than a year ago.

Call for Funds Increased As Devastation Widens in Mississippi Flood Area

With the goal of $2,500, Adams county's quota for Mississippi valley flood relief, in sight Monday, word was received from the National Red Cross today that this county would be called upon to raise $5,000, twice the amount originally specified.

Miss Margaret McMillan, secretary of the local Red Cross chapter, today received the following telegram from James L. Fieser, of the national Red Cross:

"Upon recommendation Hoover and myself, just returned from disaster area, central committee decided in view vast increase in flood area that emergency situation now demands minimum ten million dollars. This means doubling original quota each chapter. If you have already raised your original quota please continue your efforts to secure as large an amount as possible. In this crisis confident we can depend upon continuance of your loyal and devoted efforts."

At noon today, the local chapter reported contributions totaling $1,727.18, and before night the figure is expected to be several hundred dollars higher.

Among the larger contributions received in the last 24 hours are $20 from the children and people at the Hoffman Orphanage; $84, Zion Lutheran church, Fairfield; $36, Mt. Tabor United Brethren Sunday school; $23.50, Trinity Reformed church, Biglerville; $10 additional from the Auburn shale brick company; $5, Eastern Star, and $25, Acorn club.

President Coolidge late Monday issued a proclamation urging nationwide support of the new minimum quota of $10,000,000 for the relief of the Mississippi flood sufferers set by the Red Cross upon recommendation of Secretary Hoover, who had returned from the inundated area earlier in the day.

Mr. Hoover's first official act after his return was to go into conference with the president. He outlined conditions in the flooded area to the executive and immediately afterward consulted with members of the president's special flood relief committee at Red Cross headquarters. He will return to the flood area Wednesday.

TEACHER OUT FOR RECORDER

Robert E. Fisher Announces For Democratic Nomination in Primaries.

Robert E. Fisher, school teacher in Adams county for 25 years, today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination of register and recorder. He is the third Democratic candidate to enter the list for that nomination.

Mr. Fisher has never held a county office, although he has been auditor in Butler township for thirteen years. All but four of the 25 years he has served as school teacher have been in Butler township, where he was born and reared. His father and grandfather before him were residents of that district.

He is a member of the Knights of Pythias and Patriotic Order Sons of America lodges, of Arendtsville.

Walter T. Mehring, Cumberland township, and A. C. Swisher, Cumberland township, have preceded Mr. Fisher with announcements for the Democratic nomination of register and recorder.

TO PLAN ENTERTAINMENT

Members of the 40 and 8 will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock at their rooms to make plans for a "wreck" and entertainment to be held the latter part of the month.

BALTZLEY ENTERS RACE FOR SHERIFF

Fairfield High Constable After Republican Nomination in Coming Primary.

C. S. Baltzley, of Fairfield, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination as sheriff of Adams county, making the third candidate of that party to enter the race.

Although Mr. Baltzley has never been a candidate for county office, he has always taken an active part in the affairs of the Republican party. For the past four years, he has been high constable and police officer in Fairfield, where he is engaged in the implement business.

He was born in Adams county and for many years was a farmer. He entered the implement business five years ago, when he moved to Fairfield.

Mr. Baltzley comes from a long line of staunch Republicans, and has carried out his Republicanism in naming his three sons. Their names are Donald Theodore Baltzley, Robert Pershing Baltzley and Warren Harding Baltzley.

The other two Republican candidates in the field for sheriff are B. E. Bixler, Mt. Pleasant township, and C. B. Tate, Gettysburg.

F. L. KIME DIES SUDDENLY WHILE TENDING STOCK

Prominent Upper County Resident Stricken While Working About Biglerville Home.

Stricken while working about his stable at the rear of his home at Biglerville, Monday afternoon, Franklin L. Kime, one of the most prosperous farmers and orchardists of the upper county, died before aid could reach him.

Mr. Kime, who retired from farming a year ago, was preparing to visit his farm, along the Biglerville-Arendtsville road, Monday afternoon and had gone to the stable to hitch his horse. While carrying water to the animal he was seen to fall by his wife, who, thinking that he had probably injured himself, called to some neighbors and rushed to his assistance, but found that he was dead.

Mr. Kime had been occupied with small jobs about his home in the morning and was apparently in the best of health. He enjoyed a hearty meal at 11:30 o'clock and then prepared for the trip.

Active in Church

He was a lifelong resident of Menallen township. He was an active member of St. Paul's Lutheran church, holding many offices in the church. He was also a member of the Knights of the Golden Eagle, of Biglerville.

He was the son of the late Franklin and Susanna Kime, of Menallen township.

Surviving are his wife and the following children: Mrs. Hanson Heckenluber, Arendtsville; Mrs. James Lawver, Biglerville, R. D.; Miss Rosa Kime, at home; Harry Kime, Biglerville R. D.; Harvey Kime, Bendersville, and Mrs. Robert Shafer, at home. Twelve grandchildren and the following brothers and sisters also survive: Mrs. G. W. Bowers, Biglerville; Mrs. Martin Lego and Mrs. Silas Cassidy, both of Altoona; Harry Kime, Gettysburg R. D., and Harvey Kime, Pittsburg.

Funeral services Friday afternoon at his late home at 9:30 o'clock, the Rev. H. W. Sternat, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Biglerville, officiating.

MANY AUTOISTS VISIT NEW CAMP

Lake Royer Will be Scene of Maryland National Guard Encampment This Year.

Many residents of Gettysburg and Adams county are visiting the Maryland national guard camp at Cascade, Maryland, where the guards will camp during the months of July and August. The camp, to be known as "Camp Albert C. Ritchie," is on Lake Royer, which has been refilled and improved. The camp will be located there permanently.

The camp comprises 900 acres of land, 40 of which are covered by water forming an artificial lake which has been stocked with fish and which will be accessible to the public for boating and bathing purposes. A water and sewerage system has been installed and 25 permanent buildings comprising kitchens, mess halls, battalion shower baths, brigade regimental headquarters buildings, enlisted men's club house, officers' showers and mess halls will be ready for use when the men arrive. In addition a permanent rifle range for infantry arms will be located at this camp.

Rotarians Hosts to Girl Marksmen

marksmen in the world have been women. Mr. Scharf, who appeared before the Rotarians at the request of a number of members of the club to present a program for unified effort on the part of Gettysburg and Adams county business people to advance the commercial interests of the community, gave a highly interesting talk on the opportunities that confront the town and community in the way of promotional activities in general, particularly in catering to the ever increasing tourist traffic, and promoting the sale direct to the consumer of Adams county apples.

The Rotary club unanimously voted to support through individual effort a program and budget on which a number of leading business men of the community have been working the past month looking toward unified effort and cooperation to bring more money here either through a re-organized Chamber of Commerce or a similar organization of some other name. The action of the Rotarians was similar to that taken by the Gettysburg Lions club following an address by Mr. Scharf two weeks ago.

Mr. Musselman told what the Western Michigan peninsula, where he lives, is doing in the way of community effort and Chamber of Commerce work and declared that "no town, no matter how small, can afford to be without a Chamber of Commerce these days, and you cannot have a Chamber of Commerce unless you finance it properly. Your contribution to the Chamber of Commerce is an excellent investment, not a charity," he said.

SKATING CHAMPS CHOSEN

F. Romane Deardorff, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Deardorff, West Middle street, won the senior roller skating championship, and John Deardorff, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar L. Deardorff, Carlisle street, won the junior event. It was stated Monday that Earl Deardorff won the senior event.

LAWYERS NEAR BLOWS IN TRIAL

Advance Menacingly Toward
Each Other in Murder Trial of Mrs. Snyder.

New York, May 3.—(AP)—Counsel for Mrs. Ruth Snyder and for the state almost came to blows at the Snyder murder trial today.

Under examination of assistant District Attorney Froessel, Mrs. Snyder said she was downstairs on the night her husband was killed when previously she had testified she was bound upstairs.

Froessel asked if she had made a mistake, or lied, and her lawyer, Edgar Hazelton, walked shouting toward the prosecutor who moved forward to meet him. A clash was narrowly averted by the stern remonstrance of the court.

A few minutes later Judge Scudder adjourned court for luncheon although it was still half an hour short of the usual time.

Excitement suddenly rose to a high pitch as Mrs. Snyder answered, "Yes," to the question whether she had seen Gray out of the house after the murder.

"Why," Froessel shouted. "You were lying bound upstairs at the time."

"Yes, of course I was" she replied with her hand fluttering to her mouth. "Then you were lying just now!"

Froessel thundered and Hazelton jumped to his feet. The district attorney continued his questioning throughout the morning asking Mrs. Snyder about the various times Gray had mentioned his intention of killing her husband.

Gray on Witness Stand

New York, May 3.—Cross examination of Mrs. Snyder was completed today after she had been on the stand for 12 hours.

Re-direct examination immediately was started.

Lorraine, 9-year-old daughter of Mrs. Ruth Snyder, was called to the stand this afternoon to testify in her mother's defense.

The defense of Mrs. Snyder rested this afternoon.

Henry Judd Gray, co-defendant with Mrs. Snyder, took the stand this afternoon.

Penn Ramblers Have Many Engagements

The Penn Ramblers' orchestra, of Gettysburg, under the direction of Carl Peduzzi, of Gettysburg college, played for a dance at the Dixie Ramblers' club, Frederick, Monday evening.

Coming engagements of the local musicians include appearances at "The Woods," Brunswick, Maryland, Friday evening; Cumberland Valley state normal school, Shippensburg, Saturday evening; next Tuesday evening, York; Friday evening, Sigma Chi house, Bucknell university, and Saturday evening, Phi Sigma Kappa house, here.

Before going to Frederick Monday night, they played an hour for the Gettysburg Rotary club.

RECEPTION FOR BRIDAL COUPLE

A wedding reception was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Dunlop, Wensville, in honor of Mrs. Dunlop's sister, Miss Anna Heller, of Gardner, who recently was married to Charles Shultz, of Aspers.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shultz, Aspers; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Dunlop, Wensville; Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Heller and sons, Herman and Kermit, Gardner; Mrs. Mary Wolfe, son, Frank, and daughter, Miss Reba, Gardner; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dunlop and son, Harry, Miss Mildred Dunlop, Ralph May, Paul May, Miss Geraldine Dunlop, Wensville, and Miss Marvel Jacobs, York Springs.

BURY MRS. HEAGEY FROM SON'S HOME

Largely attended funeral services were held Monday afternoon for Mrs. Rebecca Heagey, formerly of Gettysburg, who died in York. Services were held in York and further services were held from the home of a son, G. W. G. Heagey, Steinwehr avenue. The services here were conducted by the Rev. M. E. Ness, pastor of Bender's Reformed church, assisted by the Rev. F. L. Stine, pastor of the Gettysburg United Brethren church. Interment was in Evergreen cemetery.

Paul Heagey was five grandsons and one great-grandson. They were R. Chandler Heagey, Lancaster; Harvey Rouzer, Palmerton; Willis Seiss, Graceham, Maryland, and Earl Heagey, Robert Wilson and Clarence Wilson, all of Gettysburg.

Six More Victims Taken From Mine

Fairmont, W. Va., May 3.—(AP)—The bodies of six additional victims of the Everettville mine disaster were located by rescue workers at noon today, making the total known dead 24.

The rescuers continued their search for 70 men still missing.

COURT TO DECIDE FISHING QUESTION

Sportsman, Known Here, to Fight Out Question of Banning Stream to Fishermen.

The much-mooted question as to whether a fisherman in a stream flowing through posted land is within his rights and not guilty of trespass will be decided when the case of Jesse Gheen, of Jersey Shore, is tried in Williamsport.

Gheen, who is active in the Susquehanna trapshooters' league, is well-known in Gettysburg, having competed here on various occasions.

Gheen, the holder of much real estate in Nippenose township, has been admitted to $5,000 bail by Judge Harvey W. Whitehead, before Probationary Theodore May. He is charged with assault and battery, felonious assault, and felonious attempt to murder.

The case is the outgrowth of an assault alleged to have been made by Gheen upon Charles F. Glasser, of Williamsport, while the latter was fishing in Antee creek, where it flows through lands owned by Gheen.

Considerable trouble has been occasioned in years past by the dispute as to whether Antee creek is a public stream or the property of land owners along its banks. Many anglers claim that even though the adjoining land is posted against trespassing, if the fisherman remains in the stream he is within his rights and not guilty of trespass. Glasser claims that he was in the stream, and not on the bank, at the time of the alleged assault.

War Secretary To Visit Flood Area

Washington, May 3.—(AP)—President Coolidge has directed Secretary Davis, of the war department, to accompany Secretary Hoover tomorrow when Mr. Hoover returns to the Mississippi flood area so that engineering corps of the army and the Mississippi river commission may expedite a report on flood prevention measures.

Booth Continues Fight For Life

Roanoke, May 3.—(AP)—Walter L. Booth continued to lose ground today, said a report from the hospital where he has been kept alive by artificial respiration for almost 12 days.

"He has a grip of the drowning man's straw," said one of the bedside workers, "and he won't shake off."

No Need For Note Writing, He Feels

Washington, May 3.—(AP)—President Coolidge sees no advantage so far as the United States is concerned, in sending another note to the Cantonese government of China upon which demands were made by the powers after the Nanking outrages.

WOODWARD TAKES OFFICE

Harrisburg, May 3.—(AP)—James S. Woodward, McKeesport, today was inducted into office as secretary of internal affairs for the third consecutive term. The oath was administered by Charles Johnson, secretary of the commonwealth, in the presence of the office force and a number of the secretary's friends.

WATERS CONTINUE RISE IN SOUTH

Fight to Hold Levees in Doubt;
Safety of New Orleans Said to be Assured.

New Orleans, May 3.—(AP)—Successful termination of the fight to hold the levees against the charge of the Mississippi river today became a grim question of endurance in the Natchez sector while a relief squadron plowed through the muddy waters to remove residents from the flooded lowlands of northeastern Louisiana.

The flood waters of the Mississippi and Red rivers continued their invasion, widening their territory northward and westward as they moved to meet the coming flood from the Arkansas river.

The dikes fight became desperate on the west bank of the Mississippi in the neighborhood of Vedaia and a crew worked throughout the night on the embankment. The crisis is expected in this territory within the next two days.

With thousands of persons already driven from their homes in northeastern Louisiana the crest of the flood is approaching Vicksburg. Many towns already are deserted while others placed reliance on protecting levees.

A rescue fleet composed of six steamboats, four coast guard patrol boats and half a dozen launches left Natchez today to comb the area covered by water.

Engineers said the safety of New Orleans was assured as the break below the city had widened to 1,000 feet, releasing sufficient water to lower the level at New Orleans.

BUS COMPANY HAS HEARING

Objection Raised to Operation of Line Between East Berlin and Harrisburg.

Argument was presented Monday afternoon before the public service commission in Harrisburg in the application of the Adams Transit company for permission to operate busses between Harrisburg and East Berlin, by way of Dillsburg.

At a hearing previously the application was protested by the Gettysburg-Harrisburg Transportation company, which contends that the route proposed conflicts with its charter territory. The part of the route in which both companies would operate is between Dillsburg and Harrisburg.

The transit company, however, contends that it does not intend to do business in the disputed territory.

The commission is expected to announce its decision soon.

WOMAN, 86, DIES AT EAST BERLIN

Mrs. Catherine Victoria Wilson, widow of James P. Wilson, died Sunday morning at 4:30 o'clock at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Wilson, East Berlin. She was aged 86 years, nine months and 28 days. Death was due to cerebral hemorrhage and general debility. Her son is her only survivor. She was formerly a resident of Altoona. Funeral services at the Wilson home Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, the Rev. Paul Glatfelter, pastor of the Abbottstown and East Berlin Lutheran charge, officiating. The body will be shipped to Altoona for burial in the Fairview cemetery at that place.

Upper End Woman Is Dead At 73

Mrs. Mary Ann Baker, 73, wife of Frank Baker, died at her home near Mount Carmel, Adams county, at 10 o'clock this morning after a lingering illness of diabetes.

Beside her husband, Mrs. Baker is survived by two sons, Elmer and Cleveland Baker, both at home, and by two brothers, John and Reuben Kepner, both of Iron Springs.

Funeral services Thursday morning at 10 o'clock from the Baker home, the Rev. C. M. Ankerbrand, Biglerville, officiating. Interment at Mount Carmel.

Don't be a Victim of "Spring Fever"

You Can Easily Avoid the Depressing Effects of the Changing Season.

In the Spring many people find themselves losing appetite, are overcome by a lack of energy, and a rundown feeling takes possession of their whole body.

Spring is a great renovating season, when Nature throws off the accumulated impurities and prepares the system for the change it must undergo before merging into the coming Summer.

At this time, the energies relax, and an unspeakable languor pervades the entire system, giving that worn-out, good-for-nothing feeling, so commonly called "spring fever."

The important thing, therefore, is to put your system in tip-top condition, so as to be able to resist the common ailments so prevalent in Summer. You must build up the tissue and repair the wear that the system has undergone.

Now is the time to take S.S.S. It is unequalled for restoring strength, vitality and a keen appetite. You owe it to yourself and family to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build up red blood corpuscles; it improves the processes by which the body is nourished, and it is time-tested and reliable. S.S.S. is made from the roots of fresh herbs and plants, and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

Get your S.S.S. at any good drug store. It is sold in two sizes. The larger size is more economical—adv.

Matinee Ladies

by William B. Courtney

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"MATINEE LADIES," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. pictureization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS
Bob Ward, working his way through college, is informed by his chums, Freddy and Arch, that they have found an easy and profitable way to earn money—working as dancing partners, of afternoons, for rich women in a fashionable New Jersey roadhouse. Bob thinks it isn't a fit way to make a living; but, faced with eviction for unpaid rent, reluctantly agrees to go to the roadhouse. There he sees the prettiest, sweetest girl he has ever laid eyes on. She is Sally, the cigarette girl. He hears, too, of a mysterious Mrs. Hammond, who frequents the Inn.

"Even Madame Leonine doesn't know who Mrs. Hammond really is. When she comes, Mrs. Hammond generally shows up around three o'clock—matinee time, you see. But she doesn't come every day, so Arch and I have figured out that she probably has a wise guy for a husband, to whom she gives a stall, no oftener than she can reasonably get away with it, that she goes to the theatre matinees. She's a swell dresser, comes in a classy foreign limousine, with a liveried chauffeur and all the trimmings!"

"Well, wouldn't it be easy to trace down in the Social Register, or the City Directory, who Mrs. Hammond is?"

"Bob, you are green!" Freddy chuckled. "You mustn't imagine for one moment that a holly-holly lady like her is going to play around in a joint like this under her own name! Even Madame Leonine doesn't know what her real name is."

"And believe me," laughed Arch. "If you can hide anything from Madame Leonine, or her side kick, that brassy-cheeked Mazie Revere with the cat eyes, it's hidden so that NOBODY can find it out. Because those two hawks can see around corners!"

"No girl with her eyes and face is bad."

"The Madame," continued Freddy, "even got her carriage boy to try and pump Mrs. Hammond's chauffeur. But no use. He's a foreigner. A Rumanian or something. And makes believe he can't understand or speak English. He doesn't wait outside, but calls back for the lady at five o'clock. After theatre time, you know!"

Bob was exceedingly interested, to say nothing of mystified, by the details of this furtive Mrs. Hammond's afternoons of play—and by the elaborate precautions taken by the lady to guard her secret.

"But," he thought aloud, "it seems to me that it would be possible to find out the lady's identity if one really wanted to do so. One could trace down the name through the registration of ownership of her car's license number, for instance, in the State Motor Vehicle Bureau."

"Madame Leonine was three jumps ahead of you," declared Arch impressively. "She tried to have that done. Of course, I'm not supposed to know it. But Mazie's tongue was a bit too loose one afternoon, as the result of a hang-over, and she babbled it to me while we were dancing. All that the Madame found out for her trouble was that the car is registered in the name of the New York agency of the Italian automobile company that makes the car. She hires it from them. Probably pays a hundred bucks a day for it. And they know her as Mrs. Hammond. If they do know her real name, they're not telling! She's too good a customer. She's rich enough to be able to use that stuff."

"Couldn't Madame Leonine have her tracked?" asked Bob. His engineering mind, used to boring to the bottom of things, was unsatisfied.

"Yes, she had her followed. To a fine apartment on Park Avenue—leased in the name of Mrs. Hammond, a wealthy widow. Another little trick that's easy—if you're the wife of one of the ten richest men in New York. Say, she hands ten and twenty dollar tips around here like we give nickels and dimes to the cross-eyed waiters in the Greek restaurant on University Avenue!"

"Vulgar display of wealth!" scoffed Bob, disgustedly. "She's probably a bootlegger's wife."

"Not at all. She's the real berries, I tell you. Wait until you see her!"

"Heck, fellows, I'm not craving for a look at Mrs. Croesus!" Bob's eyes, soft with the splendid idealism of youth and clean manhood, sought and found and bulged with dreams upon the living example of his expressed thought.

Sally Smith!—whose demure glances of shyly pleased interest in him rang in his heart with a jingle that could never be displaced by the silver coins of all the world's mints; whose honey-gold hair glowed as riches untold, whose lips beckoned like a tantalizing treasure hunt.

Mrs. Hammond and others like her—for the rest of mankind! He wanted Sally Smith, whose youth and innocence outweighed any fortune.

The whole trouble was that Bob Ward was a poor actor, in so far as concealing his ardent and tumbling thoughts were concerned. Freddy and Arch, with a worldly cynicism, nudged one another to note the Dream in his eyes.

"Oh, see what's up with old Sackcloth and Ashes!" taunted Arch. "Figuring out for himself, just like in fairy stories, that the poor little cigarette girl's blonde curls are just as good on pay day as Mrs. Hammond's yellowbacks!"

"Ain't it just like the sap, though?" Freddy appealed to Arch in particular and the world in general to bear witness to the verity of his observation. "Here we've been priming him for a chance to make a play for the cat's meow of afternoon widows, and he makes a play for a dumb Dora!"

Bob whirled upon his chums in an avenging flash. "Don't carry this kidding too far! She's not a dumb Dora!"

"If she wasn't she wouldn't peddle cigarettes!" sneered Freddy.

"What the deuce has decency got to do with intelligence? Maybe you fellows think you're smart, wise-cracking about a girl just because she's better than the rest of the truck here? Well, I think you're just a couple of ignorant tramps—and I mean that just as I say it!"

"Oh, keep your shirt on, Mr. Protector of the Virtuous," said Freddy, flushing. "Sally's a nice enough kid. We're not saying anything against her. Only—"

"—only you're just generalizing!"

"Not exactly, Bob," broke in Arch, dryly. "We're just trying to set you right, because you're as green as the grass in my Dad's cow pasture, and we don't want to see a rabid idealist like you get started on the wrong trail about the sort of janes who work in, and play in, these kind of joints. They're all cheaters!"

"She's not!" thundered Bob. "How do you know? You saw her for the first time less than an hour ago, and you're setting yourself up as her Knight Champion without ever having spoken more than ten words to her. Wake up, Bob. Don't be a sap. What do you know about her?"

Bob's eyes were sparkling dangerously red. Oblivious of his surroundings, heedless of his angrily raised voice, his menacing manner, he stepped close to his chums, thrust his square jaw toward them, clenched his fists.

"I know this much. That no girl with her eyes, with her face, and the kind of look she has on her face, is bad. And I'll sock anyone who says otherwise!"

Madame Leonine, greatly agitated, hurried up, unseen by the bustling boys, and thrust herself between them saying sharply:

"What's the matter with you gamecocks? Do you want me to fire the three of you instantly? Lucky the music for the next dance just started, or everyone in the place would have heard you, and been looking at you!"

"There isn't a thing the matter, Madame Leonine," grinned Bob, in complete self-possession again and feeling ashamed of his display of bad temper toward his two oldest and best sworn friends. "It's just a friendly debate—over a problem that came up in our classes at college this morning."

"An argument on—the assaying of gold!" broke in Freddy, who, with Arch, was deeply hurt and angered by Bob's savage attitude—but not so hurt and angered as to be able to resist the chance for a wise-crack. "You see," he felt it necessary to explain further to the rather bewildered Madame, "Bob's studying engineering. He's studying to be an authority on—gold digging!"

Freddy and Arch were promptly restored to great good humor by the satisfaction of seeing Bob squirm under this sly poke.

Musical Show at Majestic

Beginning with the performance last night the Sahara Musical comedy company at the Majestic theatre will have a complete change of program Tuesday and Wednesday offering a repertoire of gorgeously produced musical comedies, each production staged with lavish splendor, presenting a stupendous array of special features, catchy novelties and captivating singing and dancing.

The cast and chorus consist of thirty-five very clever artists headed by Harry Rollins, the "king of the laughter trust," whose sensational comedy is well worth the price of admission alone, but with him is offered a cyclonic aggregation of cosmopolitan stage beauties, singers, dancers and actors, a whale of a show defying competition at the scale of prices.

Included in the cast are: Harry

Rollins, Betty Powers, Charles Breedlove, Gladys Dal, Paul Johnston, Rosale West, Fuddie Whitlock, Ivy Bowman, Frank West, Skeet Wagner, Ragsdale Sisters, Tiny Muvree, Francis Feldner and Chick McDonald. In the chorus are the Misses Brower, Bartlett, Lehigh, Ford, Parker Sisters, Le Mar, Armstrong, Reband, Holman, Witherell, Hyatt, Shaw, Near, Schuster, Lawrence.

The Sahara company is claimed to be the biggest, fastest, funniest and flashiest show ever presented at popular prices.

"Flesh and the Devil"

The vivid drama of the master dramatist Sudermann; the masterful portrayals of John Gilbert, Greta Garbo and Lars Hanson, a mighty triumvirate of the art of the screen—plus the direction of Clarence Brown, past master of cinema subtleties—these make "Flesh and the Devil."

The new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer masterpiece, playing at the Strand theatre, Tuesday and Wednesday, is a picture unique in screen history. In the first place, it is one of the most tremendous dramas ever filmed—and in the second place, despite the driving power of its theme, it is pure entertainment. It fairly carries the audience back to Europe; the Europe of today, and among the people who work out one of the greatest problems of life in a manner so gripping, so astounding that it leaves the audience gasping.

The play is a new triumph for John Gilbert, fully as notable as "The Big Parade" or "Bardelys the Magnificent." And those who thought they saw Greta Garbo, the dazzling Swedish star, in "The Torrent" and "The Temptress," have her yet to see. Miss Garbo is a different creature as the gorgeous but sinister charmer of the strange tale, wherein she enslaves her husband's best friend by her exotic beauty, precipitating a cataclysm of human conditions.

Hanson plays a dominant role as the wronged husband; a role of far more power than his first American appearance in "The Scarlet Letter," and George Fawcett contributes a remarkable portrayal as the stern old pastor. Refreshingly sweet is Barbara Kent as the young girl Hertha, and Eugenie Besserer a charming mother, while William Orlamond gives a delightful character interpretation as Uncle Kutowski.

Clarence Brown, the director of the picture, has added another great and lasting success to his "Kiki," "The Eagle" and "The Goose Woman."

A new hog cholera poster in red and black and typifying a hog lot scene of swine in various stages of cholera has been issued. Its purpose is to urge farmers to immunize their pigs with serum.

What's new in gasoline?

LAST year you and thousands of other motorists saw in Atlantic Gasoline a far-reaching Atlantic contribution to the science of motor fuel manufacture.

Your own car gave you the proof.

Naturally, such strides of progress prompt the question, "What's new in gasoline this year?" And again Atlantic has the answer:

A still further development of the Atlantic process of combining different elements from different types of petroleum

It was found that crude from the oil fields of California produced certain distinctive qualities in gasoline. That petroleum from the immense Texas regions furnished other unusual components. That certain elements from the gas wells of West Virginia offered still another valuable ingredient.

But it was in the chemical changes produced by the scientific refining of this combination that the greatest and most recent Atlantic discoveries were made. Your motor will tell you the rest of the story—that here is indeed the finest all-round gasoline you have ever used

A gasoline so quick-and-ready for action that starting loses all the trial of patience it once held.

So remarkably balanced that no matter what the speed, the pull or the temperature of your motor, every drop is converted into live wheel-turning energy.

So clean-burning that power-robbing carbon is practically exterminated.

So rangy and alert that you can crawl placidly behind congested, slow-moving traffic or spurt through a clear-way without a moment's hesitation.

The season is on! All Atlantic pumps and service stations have the new 1927 Atlantic Gasoline. Put it in your tank from the beginning, and your fuel worries will be as light as the cares of a boy on the last day of school

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

JAMES F. DRAKE

A HUMAN being is the most interesting topic that anyone can write about.

It would make me happy to write a brief tribute to every one of the helpful and interesting people whom I have met in this world, and whom I count as friends—but that would take up this little space from now until the fingers that touch the keys of my typewriter have been buried in shadows.

One day I was passing along a street in New York City and read a sign in front of a building as follows: "James F. Drake. Rare Books." It arrested my attention. "What are rare books?" I asked myself. "Who can build a business by selling rare books?"

I walked into that place. I asked to meet this James F. Drake. I found that he had started in a little room hardly larger than my bathroom. But the place in which I found myself occupied two great floors, and it seemed as though I was merely in the great library of a very rich and learned man.

I learned more about books in that first hour than I ever dreamed of knowing about them, though I had been a lover of books all my life. This Mr. Drake has two sons with him in his business, who in turn have sons of their own—at least one of them has. And the love of books, rare and precious, sparkles from the eyes of them all.

I listened to the wonderful tales of book hunts that Mr. Drake told me. I was amazed at the extent of interest shown in old and rare books by men of wealth. I was told the story of one man who had collected a library worth something like a million dollars and who had given it over in its entirety to his Alma Mater.

And this was a man who took as much pleasure in finding a treasure of almost priceless worth, and turning it over to the one who sought it, as though it were to belong to him forever. In other words, he thrilled at passing on his loves to others.

I can see that James F. Drake has me for a friend forever! And I hope he will never regret the fact. For when I am unusually tired, or need a spark of inspiration, I trot over for a little talk at "the Drake's!"

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

THE FOOL

I'm the sort of a fool that will pull up a chair,
And then let a child come and rumple his hair,
And climb on his stomach and wiggle about,
Go through his pockets and empty them out,
And say when such mischievous romps are done:
"Well, wasn't it fun?"

I'm the sort of a fool that will settle to read
A book, or a paper, a tract, or a creed,
And then let a blue-eyed and plump little maid,
Who of nobody living seems ever afraid,
Come right up and snatch what I'm reading away
Shouting: "Come, let us play!"

I'm the sort of a fool that will calmly sit by,
While a cute little finger is poked in his eye,
And a cute little foot kicks him square in the front
So hard that the neighbors are shocked at his grunt,
And then say with a grin when the fooling is done,
"Well, wasn't it fun!"

"Well, we've seen the wonderful ribbon tree, what next?" asked the Ragged Rabbit Giant, smiling down at his little bunny friend.

"I don't know much about bunny fairy land," sighed the little rabbit. "I'll leave it to you."

"Come along," laughed the good-natured old giant, and whistling to his little yellow bird, he strode along in his seven-league boots, the little rabbit hopping by his side as fast as he was able. No easy matter to keep up with a long-legged giant, let me tell you, even if one happens to be a hipper hop little bunny.

"Maybe you're tired," by and by remarked the Ragged Rabbit Giant, and leaning down, he picked up the little bunny and slipped him into his waistcoat pocket. Then off he strode, the little yellow bird perched on his shoulder and the little rabbit alongside of the big man's fountain pen. Yes, sir, that waistcoat pocket was large enough to hold it and the bunny boy.

All of a sudden the Ragged Rabbit Giant stopped and scratched his head. "I'm taking you too far from home, maybe," he exclaimed.

"Perhaps I had better hop home," sighed the little bunny, and out of the old giant's pocket he hopped. "Well, goodbye," said the big man rabbit, a trifle sadly. He was mighty fond of his little bunny friend. Yes, indeed.

So homeward hopped the little rabbit when, all of a sudden,

A swan boat with the Fairy Queen Came floating down the meadow stream.

"Aho!" the little bunny cried. "Please take me for a steamboat ride."

"Curloo! Curloo!" whispered the pretty fairy to her swan, and with a graceful turn, he swam up to the bank. Into the little cabin fastened on his feather back, hopped the nimble little rabbit, and away paddled the great swan up to the country over which she ruled.

"Wouldn't Lady Love be surprised to see you here?" laughed the Fairy Queen.

"Do you know my pretty mother?" asked the bunny boy.

"Of course I do. She loves fairies, like all dear mothers," answered the Fairy Queen.

Just then who should look down from behind a great tree but the Ragged Rabbit Giant, although only his head could be seen high above the leafy branches.

"Where are you going?" he shouted, his great voice frightening all the little birds in their nests.

Chinese Student Wins Oratorical Contest

Chicago, May 3.—(AP)—Glen Ginn, a Chinese student at Park college, Parkville, Mo., won the fifty-third annual oratorical contest of the interstate oratorical association at Northwestern university Saturday with an oration entitled "The Yellow Peril."

The contest was opened some time ago, with 150 colleges from 16 states represented. Six contestants entered the finals.

BULL TERRIERS LIVE LONGEST

Williamsport, (AP).—Bull terriers seem to be the patriarchs of the dog world according to the observation of Wayne B. Carson, deputy treasurer of Lycoming county, who collects dog license fees. The oldest animal for which a license was obtained in a year's time was a bull terrier 16 years old. Several other bull terriers between 14 and 15 years old were registered in this period here.

WROTE DR. PIERCE—NOW SHE IS WELL

—Ulrich Studio

"Three years ago I went down in health with inward weakness," said Mrs. Dora Elliott of 2228 W. Cumberland St., Lebanon, Pa. "I had a catarrhal condition and continuous pains in my right side. I also cramped for two or three days at a time. I was becoming weak and miserable and very much discouraged when I heard that if I wrote to Dr. Pierce for advice it would be given to me. I did so, followed the advice given and today I am well, free from all my former ailments, thanks to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, Golden Medical Discovery, and Pleasant Pellets, also the Lotion Tablets and Healing Suppositories, which I was able to purchase right here at the drug store."

SPRAYED RUBBER WEB CORD FLAT BAND METHOD

BUY WHERE YOU SEE THIS SIGN

United States Tires
Sales & Service Depot

Q. Why does Web Cord add to the mileage of United States Tires?
A. Consider first what happens in a balloon tire—the extent to which the side-wall structure must constantly bend and recover. Combined flexibility and strength are demanded far beyond the needs of high pressure tires.

Web Cord is the completely satisfying answer to these requirements. By soaking the cord in pure, liquid latex, each tiny fibre of the cotton is insulated with rubber. And this more intimate union between cord and rubber is accomplished without the use of weakening chemical solvents.

Furthermore, the latex webs the cords together without the use of cross-tie threads. One of the major causes of internal friction is removed.

The result is maximum strength with maximum flexibility—which means maximum mileage.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients. It is known as Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur Compound and can be obtained at all drug stores for only 75 cents a bottle.

While gray faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.—adv.

TWO HOMES MADE HAPPY
By Women Who Used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I think it is the most wonderful medicine I ever tried," is the statement made by Mrs. Goldie Shoup of St. Joseph, Illinois. She declares that after taking the Compound she is in better health than before.

Mrs. J. Storms of 29 Lane Street, Paterson, N. J., writes: "I can not speak too highly of your medicine and I recommend it to all my friends."

These statements were taken from two enthusiastic letters which tell of the help that has been received from using the Vegetable Compound. Both Mrs. Shoup and Mrs. Storms were in a run-down condition which caused them much unhappiness. When women are suffering from lack of strength and from weakness, their own life and that of their family is affected. When they feel well and strong and are able to do their household easily, happy homes are the result.

Thousands of testimonial letters have been received from women in different walks of life, stating that the Compound has helped them.

GET VIADUCT BY ACCIDENT

Bloomsburg, (AP).—Through accident rather than foresight, an eight foot addition to a viaduct on the state highway between Bloomsburg and Berwick has been made possible at trifling expense. When the viaduct was built, the trolley company then operating between Bloomsburg and Berwick shared the expense as it used the viaduct for its track to eliminate a dangerous grade crossing. Since the trolley has gone out of business, the portion of the viaduct it used remained idle. A concrete base guard, a foot high, is now being removed to make possible the addition to the roadway.

You Earn It-- Who Gets It?

LIFE owes a man something more than a rented roof over his head and a flock of bills at the end of the month. In fact, your own earnings, however received, owe you more.

A simple financial plan applied to your present earnings would pay you big returns in happiness and security.

Ask for our booklet "Daily Dividends and How to Get Them." It was written for ambitious people.

If It Isn't Right, We'll Make It Right

The Owl and Nightingale Club regrets that owing to the fact that the installation of equipment was finally completed three hours before the curtain rose on the "Doll's House," it was impossible to adjust the performance to the auditorium, or the auditorium to the performance. Considerable work is being and will be done on the gymnasium and we believe a very definite improvement will be evidenced before the end of the week.

If any of the audience of Thursday night last, felt that their enjoyment of the play was in any way marred because of the incomplete character of the hall, I would appreciate greatly if they will communicate with me giving name, address and number of seats occupied. The club will be glad indeed to have them as guests for "The Merchant of Venice" on Monday, June 6th or (if inconvenient) any of the regular performances next season.

We appreciate highly the good will of the theatre-goers of Gettysburg and will endeavor to merit a continuance of their patronage.
